Darwin TULIPS

For many years the Darwins have been the most popular family of tulips. Perhaps the best thing about them is that there is a Darwin tulip of almost every color of the rainbow. Thus they make good effects planted in beds or borders or along with other flowers. And they have long, strong stems, usually 2 feet tall, or taller, which makes them show up well while growing and also ideal for cut flowers. And they always look good, even when fully expanded. They bloom in May, and, last but by no means least important, they don't cost much.

Named Variety Collection

B7062X—2 each of the 12 named Darwin Tulips pictured and described here — 24 bulbs for only 1.98, postpaid. Full collection of bulbs only at this special price.

RAINBOW TULIP GARDEN

We believe you ought to have a lot of tulips to make a good showing—a block of colors in a bed or a border of good length. 18 bulbs at least, preferably more. But we know that is apt to run into money, maybe more money than you can easily put into tulips. So that is why we make up this special "Rainbow Tulip Bargain."

Now these are all named variety Darwin tulips such as illustrated here. And they are first quality big blooming sized bulbs. And a wide variety of colors and kinds—we mix 15 to 18 different varieties in each collection. You'll get reds, pinks, yellows, blacks, blues, whites and all the rest. We sell thousands of these collections every year because the bulbs are good and the price is low.

THE FACTS about FALF PLANTING

If you live south of Central Nebraska and Central Iowa, you can plant anything listed in this catalog during the fall.

If you live north of that line, it is safe to plant perennial flowers, tulips, lilies and evergreens during the fall season, and in the normal planting manner. But with roses, shrubs, shade trees and windbreaks do this:

Dig a trench out in the open, loosen the stock up in the bundle, lay it on its side in the trench and then cover it with at least 6 or 8 inches of moist earth. Bury roots, tops and all, and cover them completely. Your stock will store perfectly in this manner and the advantage is that you have your stock for planting at the earliest possible date next spring. If our weather condition is such at Yankton next spring that we can't make shipments early, you are safe because you have your stock already there for digging out, and planting the very first thing when the frost goes out of the ground. And it is this early planting that is best.

Summing up, you can safely order anything in this catalog regardless of where you live, but handle the stock as described above for the location you live in. If you have any questions at any time, please write us.

Superfection

STRAWBERRIES

Where fall planting of strawberries is practical, it is better than spring planting because the plants make root growth in the winter and get a quick, healthy growth in the spring before hot weather hits. They can be planted safely as far north as the middle of Iowa. But mulch after ground freezes so frost won't heave them out of the ground.

And, just as important, it is a strong grower and a fine plant maker bears two heavy berry crops a year. 25 for 2.69; 50 for 4.98; 100 for 9.50, ppd.

ROSES

From Missouri south, everyone should plant roses in the fall. In Oklahoma-Texas region and eastward, they always do better fall planted because the roots get established and plants get more early spring moisture. But even north of Iowa, many experts bury rose plants in the fall, 10 to 12 in. deep, then mound over with dirt. With the earliest spring growing weather, they dig them up and plant them.

Here's Why Gurney's APPLES Do Better for You:

Most apple trees are grafted on common apple seedlings. But we bud (not graft) our apple trees on iron-hardy Baccata root stock. Baccata is an extremely hardy Siberian crab apple with heavy, strong roots. Thus Gurney's apple trees are hardy as far north into Canada as apples can be grown, where ordinary apple trees wouldn't live, and at the same time they are extra hardy for Southern planters. And they bear 2 to 4 years sooner.

A1020—EARLY HARVEST. It ripens in July. A fine yellow, good for cooking and eating.

A1040—HARALSON. Hardest of the winter apples. Keeps until summer. Sturdy, well branched trees.

A1019—RED DUCHESS. Juicy red fruit in August. Improvement of old Duchess.

A1000—ANOKA. It often bears the first year after planting. Extra hardy. Good quality, rich flavor.

IDEAL FOR FALL PLANTING

What and How to Fall Plant

If you live south of Central Iowa or Central Nebraska, plant fruit trees the usual way. North of that line, it may be better to bury the trees in a small trench, tops and all. Next spring dig them up and plant them. Thus you get them planted at the earliest spring date, and that pays.

Trees you order this fall will be shipped by us as soon after Oct. 15 as possible. They are not ripened off and dormant enough to dig before then. Trees you plant this fall will not put on any top growth this fall; they will start earlier next spring. You can fall plant even when you have to break thru an inch or two of frozen crust.

Gurney's Nursery Stock

GUARANTEE

We guarantee our nursery stock to be all state inspected, free from disease, true to name, and first-class in every way.

Examine the nursery stock carefully when you receive it. If you are not pleased with it in every way return it promptly at our expense and we will replace it at once or refund your money in full, whichever you prefer.

After you have planted it, if it fails to grow owing to weather conditions or other factors over which we have no control, we will replace losses at half price the following season, if you notify us not later than October 1, 1952. Accompany your report with a remittance of one-half the original purchase price.
